This is a walking tour - come prepared with water, walking shoes and weather protection!

Please be advised that with respect to all religions and political beliefs, Tucson Meet Yourself requests there be no proselytizing or political campaigning during the Festival. This applies to all exhibitors, vendors, performers and participants. While religious communities will be allowed to share sacred texts, answer questions from the public about religious practices and beliefs, and sell or distribute general information, the focus MUST be on the passing of traditions and the forming of "folk" communities through faith. No arguments, debates, efforts to recruit, convince, or in any way diminish, disrespect, or target any other group, community, or identity will be tolerated. Respectful and civil dialogue is encouraged at all times. If TMY staff determines that this rule is violated, your group/organization will be asked to leave the festival premises immediately and no refund will be issued.

Thank you!
