Theme: Technology and Innovation have enabled counties to focus on strengthening counties' capacities in three areas: 1) protecting public safety; 2) preserving public health and well-being; and 3) promoting local economies.

Preserving Health and Well-Being through Innovation Labs Pilot Programs

At the July 2015 Technology Innovation Summit, you learned how innovation labs leverage data and best practices that have the greatest potential to improve patient outcomes or demonstrate measurable value. Aetna's Innovation Labs provide a source for unique ideas and programs that provide market-leading capabilities to improve health care quality and reduce costs for its customers and members. Through this organization, Aetna can test specific initiatives such as those related to disease prediction and intervention; rapidly determine success rates and impact across populations of members; and quickly expand programs that show promise. This session will dive deeper into outcomes that Aetna Innovation Labs pilot programs have achieved.

Promoting Local Economies through Smarter Communities

The theme of Smarter Communities conjures up a wide variety of definitions and approaches to delivering improved government services. Sub-themes such as sustainable, safer, healthy communities, livable communities, smart grid, smart transportation all provide more focus to this broader theme. This doesn't make it any easier, as county governments are still struggling with the problems of leveraging limited resources, delivering more accountability and transparency. This session will discuss new approaches to building information, sharing information, streamlining processes, analyzing data trends and problems, while developing a modernized approach.

Demystifying How Broadband Technologies, Next Generation 9-1-1, FirstNet, and SAFECOM Protect Public Safety

This session will provide you with a better understanding of broadband, Next Generation 9-1-1, applications and how emerging technologies will affect the future. It will provide you with best practices on how to deploy emerging technologies; look at the fiscal impact that these technologies will have on counties; describe what grants states currently are receiving and how these trickle down to the counties; and discuss how NACo has positions on over 60 National boards including SAFECOM and FirstNet to better represent and get ahead of changes and mandates that could affect your county.

Making Cybersecurity Easier

Cybersecurity is too hard. There is a shortage of qualified people to fill cybersecurity positions and those in place are overwhelmed by the complexity and fragmentation of typical network defenses. This session will discuss ways to reduce this complexity and highlight the ways industry is working to help address these issues.

Emerging Cognitive Technologies to Augment Human Capacity and Understanding

Cognitive computing refers to systems that learn at scale, reason with purpose and interact with humans naturally. Rather than being explicitly programmed, they learn and reason from their interactions with us and from their experiences with their environment. They are made possible by advances in a number of scientific fields over the past half-century, and are different in important ways from the information systems that preceded them. It consists of augmenting the human ability to understand—and act upon—the complex systems of our society. This augmented intelligence is the necessary next step in our ability to harness technology in the pursuit of knowledge, to further our expertise and to improve the human condition. That is why it represents not just a new technology, but the dawn of a new era of technology, business and society.

Washington 4 (Exhibition Level)

This special session is open to all conference attendees and is jointly convened by the Justice and Public Safety Policy Steering Committee, the Health Policy Steering Committee and the Healthy Counties Advisory Board

As safety net providers of behavioral health and substance abuse services and the entry point of the criminal justice system, counties are uniquely positioned to create coordinated and comprehensive systems of care to ensure that individuals receive needed treatment in the appropriate setting. Counties across the country are building innovative systems and developing unique partnerships with their local justice systems so that jails are not de facto behavioral health treatment centers. NACo's Stepping Up initiative is helping counties advance these efforts. At this session, you will hear from county peers on local programs that aim to improve the well-being of individuals with mental health and co-occurring substance use disorders, and from Congressional staffers on how federal programs can support these efforts.

A Conversation with Counties on the Federal Refugee Admissions and Resettlement Programs

Roosevelt 1-3 (Exhibition Level)

This special session is open to all conference attendees and is convened by the NACo Immigration Reform Task Force.

As numerous international disasters have unfolded throughout modern history, the United States has admitted and resettled millions of individuals fleeing from war-torn or oppressive nations. Congress enacted the first refugee legislation after World War II, in 1948, and later passed the Refugee Act of 1980, which created a standardized resettlement process and established the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR) under the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Today, the United States continues to admit and resettle individuals from around the world who are fleeing war or persecution, and various federal agencies, including ORR, play a role in carrying out this process. In this session, we will be joined by representatives from these agencies, who will discuss the federal government's refugee admission and resettlement process and engage with NACo members on the role of counties in this process.
