

Rent Assistance Update: January 4, 2020

Congress passed additional funds for rent assistance, but it will take some weeks before they are available to the community. In the meantime, we strongly recommend that you sign and give your landlord the CDC (Centers for Disease Control) declaration form. You can find it, along with updated information on rent and utility assistance, information on attending your court hearing if you do face an eviction proceeding, and other resources from our webpage www.pima.gov/RentHelp.

If you are facing an eviction, we encourage you to attend your hearing and to inform the Judge that you have given the CDC declaration form and applied for rent assistance. Be sure to give your documentation to the courts. Information can be found at the website above, along with where to find legal representation if you need it.
