

PIMA COUNTY ELECTION INTEGRITY COMMISSION
MEETING MINUTES FOR JUNE 10, 2016

<http://www.pima.gov/commission/ElectionIntegrity.shtml>

The Pima County Election Integrity Commission met in regular session on June 10, 2016 at 9:00 a.m. in the Herbert K. Abrams Building, 3rd Floor Conference Rooms 3108/3110 at 3950 S. Country Club Road, Tucson, Arizona.

ITEM 1. ROLL CALL

Present: Arnie Urken, Chris Cole, Karen Schutte, Brad Nelson, Beth Borozan, Bill Beard, and Tom Ryan. Jeff Rogers arrived at 9:40 and Brian Bickel arrived at 10:00.

Also in Attendance: Ellen Wheeler, County Administrator's Office, and David Wisely, Elections Technician with the IT Section in the Elections Department.

ITEM 2. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The American flag was saluted with the Pledge of Allegiance.

ITEM 3. APPROVAL OF MINUTE SUMMARY – April 15, 2016

It was moved by Arnie Urken, seconded by Chris Cole and carried unanimously to approve the Minutes of the April 15, 2016 meeting.

ITEM 4. CALL TO PUBLIC

No public observers present

ITEM 5. TRACKING NEW LEGISLATION – Bill Beard

Bill Beard referred to his handout on election related bills at the Legislature [a copy of this list is incorporated into these Minutes as Attachment 1]. The signed bills have been highlighted in bold. Chris Cole asked Bill what the differences were between the several versions of the ballot harvesting bills; Bill's understanding is that the differences are in the language used and the basic thrust was the same in all of them. Brad mentioned that procedures in the Elections Department and polling places will not be impacted; it will be past practices used by campaigns that will be impacted.

Tom Ryan asked Brad if there were any of the bills that will affect the Elections Department; Brad responded that campaign finance had some changes. All the counties are waiting for the Secretary of State's 2017 launch of the campaign finance system where everyone at the various jurisdictional levels will be in the same system. Bill added that it won't be mandatory, but the Secretary of State is leaving it open-ended for the jurisdictions to sign on. All records would then be stored in one location, and this will also standardize how campaign finance is reported. There doesn't seem to be a down-side to this system. Brad noted that the jurisdictions are wondering if there will be a cost to them; he thinks there probably will be. In Pima County, an outside vendor is paid about $12,000 for the software and licensing fee to maintain the campaign financing system. Arnie asked if the state database will show side-by-side who gets contributions from a certain contributor and whether they are receiving "dark" money. Bill responded that he thinks the database will allow cross-referencing by candidate, by donor, by jurisdiction, etc. From a public standpoint it will enhance transparency. Brad said the counties may see a preliminary demo of the system at a conference held in a couple of weeks.

ITEM 6. REVIEW OF VOTER REGISTRATION INVOLUNTARY PARTY AFFILIATION CHANGES – Tom Ryan

- Request by Board of Supervisors
- Report of Findings to the Board of Supervisors

Tom Ryan sent a draft letter to EIC members to respond to Mr. Huckelberry's request on behalf of the Board [a copy of Mr. Huckelberry's memo is incorporated into these Minutes as Attachment 2]. Tom asked for comments on the letter; discussion ensued and the resulting letter is incorporated into these Minutes as Attachment 3. [This letter was forwarded to the Board of Supervisors on June 13, 2016.]

ITEM 7. REPORT ON MAY 17 ELECTION – Brad Nelson

Brad reported that this was a very quiet election. Out of approximately half a million registered voters in Pima County, about 188,000 cast a ballot. There was overall about a 37% turnout in Pima County, with 90% of ballots being cast by early ballot. This election is eligible for reimbursement, and the Elections Department is in the process of preparing the bill to send to the Secretary of State. The Elections Department cost for conducting the May 17th election was $557,000, the majority of which was pay for poll workers and election night workers, and printing of the ballots.

The polling places were basically the same as for the PPE. There were very few problems with people not finding their polling place. There were no lines when the polls closed. There were relatively few provisional ballots [1,339]. Yavapai County had the highest turnout with about 40%; Pima County was next with almost 38%. Overall statewide, the turnout was about 25 – 26%. Maricopa County did use vote centers, but had more for this election than were used for the PPE.

ITEM 8. COST OF PPE & REIMBURSEMENT FROM SOS – Brad Nelson

Election Department costs for the PPE were $628,956; Brad thought the Recorder's office costs were approximately $250,000. An email was sent to counties via the Arizona Association of Counties from the Secretary of State's office saying that a number of counties' billings were deficient, but they did not list which counties. Brad believes the Pima County bill was fairly well itemized. But he would like to know if Pima County is one of the counties with deficiencies, because they have not sent in the bill for the May election to make sure it reflects the criteria the Secretary of State is looking for.

ITEM 9. 2016 PRIMARY CANDIDATES WHO HAVE FILED PETITIONS – Brad Nelson

- List of Candidates
- Any Issues?

Brad had a copy of the list of candidates that filed to pass around [a copy is incorporated into these Minutes as Attachment 4]. These are candidates who have filed at the county level, except precinct committeemen; one would have to look at the Secretary of State's website to see a list of state and federal offices.

For precinct committeemen, if there are equal to or less candidates within a certain party running in the same precinct, law allows for no contest. In the Green Party, there are four contested elections.

The Libertarian Party has closed their primary, so only registered Libertarians may choose a Libertarian ballot. They have done that on many occasions in the past. The reason he brought this up is that for an unaffiliated voter who requests a ballot for a party where there is a contested precinct committeeman race, they will receive a ballot with all races except precinct committeeman. This leads to more ballot style variations.

And Federal only voters will receive a ballot with only Federal offices.

Brad imagines that he will be hearing about many candidate challenges within the next couple of days, and the deadline for filing a challenge is June 15th. If a candidate is removed from the ballot due to a court challenge, they are not able to file as a write-in.

Tom Ryan asked about the deadline for ballot design; Brad responded that UOCAVA ballots must be ready to go out on July 16th. Since that is a Saturday, they are shooting for the 15th. The deadline for filing challenges is June 15, but then the challenges must be heard and decisions rendered, and the write-in candidates still need to be qualified. So the Elections Department is working to meet these deadlines.

Karen Schutte noted that this will be the largest ballot used on the new equipment. Brad added that this ballot will have the greatest variations because there will be municipal races on the ballot also. If a precinct is partly in one of those municipalities, for example, Oro Valley, there will be the four political party races, plus the municipal races; there will also be a municipal ballot by itself. If there are precinct committeeman races, double that again, plus the Fed only ballot as well. Provisional ballots have all the variations, as well. You could conceivably have 15 to 16 ballot variations within that one precinct. Bill Beard asked what kind of instruction poll workers will have on these multiple variations of ballots. Brad responded that in every polling place, by statute, there is a ballot accounting form that tells the poll workers how many of each variation of ballot they have to start the day with. They are to open every box and inventory each one. The signature roster is what tells the signature judge which ballot that voter is to receive. The signature judge writes the ballot stripe information on the Voter ID Slip and gives it to the voter, who takes it to the ballot judge; the ballot judge gives them the appropriate ballot. During the training classes required for all poll workers, it is brought up that some of them will be dealing with numerous variations of ballots, and here is how you distinguish which ballot you need to give voters. The report cards that poll workers get also will discuss any problems in this area.

The biggest issue with voters is getting them to the right polling place. The August 30th election will have many more polling places than in March and May because of the requirement to consolidate precincts in those two elections. Someone may think they can just go back to the place they went in May and it may be the wrong place. Informing voters when they do come to the wrong place that they need to go to the correct location or their ballot will not count will be critical.

Chris Cole brought up the issue of conspicuous placement of write-in candidates in the polling place. Brad agreed that the law says the list shall be placed in a conspicuous location. There may be some who believe it is the County's obligation to post the list in each and every voting booth, and the answer is no. There are other things that go into the voting booth: full text inserts of ballot propositions; notifications in English and Spanish that if you make a mistake on your ballot, just ask for another; notifications that if you overvote your ballot, everything else will count. There are notifications posted on every square inch of the inside of the voting booth.

Tom Ryan had a question on the PEVL and the various ballot styles; he assumes there is enough information in the way they fill out that form that it can be determined which ballot to send them. Brad responded that non-party affiliated voters receive a card that asks the voter which party's ballot they would like to receive. It is Brad's understanding that if that is not filled out, the Recorder does not send a ballot to the voter even for a municipal election, on the off chance that the voter will later go to the polling place and declare which ballot they would like to vote.

ITEM 10. DESIGNATION OF POLLING PLACES FOR 2016 PRIMARY & GENERAL ELECTIONS – Brad Nelson

We are going back to all of our precincts for these elections, rather than using just the consolidated polling places of the PPE and May elections. Brad referred to the polling place list he provided [a copy of this list is incorporated into these Minutes as Attachment 5]. Listings in bold show a change and the reason for the change. This list will also go to the municipal clerks as well as some of the civic organizations and Native American tribes. This list will be presented to the Board of Supervisors for their approval on July [5], 2016. The list is similar to the polling places used in 2015 for the county-wide bond election, and in 2014.

ITEM 11. PLANS FOR AUGUST 30, 2016 PRIMARY ELECTION – Brad Nelson

Covered during the discussion on Item 9.

ITEM 12. RISK LIMITING AUDIT PILOT STUDY – Tom Ryan

- Conducting Mock Election

Tom said he was disappointed that the risk limiting audit did not take place. He didn't feel there was any real need to ask the Secretary of State for approval, and it was an easy way to just not do it. He is concerned about the possibility of inserting this into a live election going forward, without a law stating it is legal to do this.

Jeff Rogers asked Tom about the possibility of having the City cooperate with the EIC in the next City election. When asked about any concern the City may have of the Secretary of State saying they can't do it, Jeff thought the City Attorney's Office might be more willing to opine that it is none of their business.

Brad stated that he is not opposed to doing the risk limiting audit; he is opposed to disrupting a statutory election. The Elections Department has gone forward—they have 30,000 ballots, marked and ready to go to conduct a mock election. They have incurred some expense to come this far. Brad reiterated, and he also believes Mr. Huckelberry would agree, they do not want to negatively impact a statutory election. With a mock election they could see if it is a disruption or not.

David Wisely designed the mock election ballot. David said the ballot is designed with essentially one precinct and is nonpartisan, using the Oscar list to create the ballot. There are vote for one, vote for two, vote for three and yes and no questions. There are seven ballot styles; they limited the number because of printing costs. They can create a cast vote record. David suggests selecting your paper ballot and then matching it to the digital image.

Arnie Urken raised the issue of a tie or a margin so small you need to have a recount; he would want to do an experiment that takes that into account. David said there is a race on this mock ballot where the margin can be less than one-tenth of a percent. Arnie also said it would be interesting to experiment with other mock situations like approval voting. David responded that they tried to make this ballot comprehensive so it could be used for any type of test you could design.

Bill Beard pointed out that the risk limiting audit is an additional method to document the validity of the tabulation system. The risk limiting audit, like all tools, becomes irrelevant if the margin is so small that a recount is necessary; the risk limiting audit then is no longer part of the equation. Tom clarified that if a race is close enough for a recount, the RLA would be conducted on the recount.

Brad restated that he is not, nor is Mr. Huckelberry, opposed to doing an RLA; his concern is doing it on a statutory election. He sees doing a mock election with 30,000 ballots a good path towards actually doing one on a statutory election. The Elections Department is ready to go; they have spent hours on emails and telephone calls with other states that have done them, they have spent close to $8,000 to have the ballots printed, and they are committed. Tom asked Brad if his staff has looked into the algorithms for determining the number of ballots to audit; Dr. Stark has provided some online spreadsheets for this. Tom is wondering if they can go forward with an analysis without Dr. Stark having to come. David responded that he believes they do, and that he has written an Excel process and has played with it to see how it works. If EIC members would like to prepare the equations, the Elections Department is open to that; they provide the EIC with the resources, and EIC can run the mock election if they would like.

Tom recommended that the Elections Department continue to look at the online calculators that Dr. Stark has provided, just as a double check for consistency. Once they feel they have a handle on it, that is the time to have the gathering of people to actually do the risk limiting audit. During previous discussion, Brad had mentioned the use of ballot images, but Tom said that the RLA does not use ballot images. Brad clarified that they would use paper ballots, get the cast vote record and document identifier, and not use images at all.

The other issue for Tom is that there is no cast vote record that has all the information that he wants—sequence number and how the ballot was cast—all in one document. Two different forms would have to be combined to get that; David agreed. Tom had a discussion with Ken Carbullido from ES&S, who thought the form they wanted could be created. David added that the information could be exported out of ERM, out of the counting room, put into Access or Excel and then combined. Tom thought that this could also be a convenient form for the database distribution. It would be worth pursuing this to streamline the process of combining the forms.

Arnie mentioned that Minnesota uses a similar process for their rank order voting. He had asked Mr. Carbullido to put him in touch with officials there who could tell him how that was done, but Mr. Carbullido didn't get a response. Arnie wondered if the Elections Department would have any greater success in finding out how they make the process work. David said they had spoken to election officials in Colorado; their methodology is to export the tables and import them into Access where they are combined into a final product.

Tom asked how the Commission would like to proceed. He recognized that the Elections Department was going to need more time to work with the calculators. He asked Brad to give an update at the next meeting, and at that time, try and schedule a time to do the RLA. Brad suggested that, since the window is going to be small until the Primary Election, perhaps ES&S could provide a stand-alone system for this.

Tom asked if David could make the cast vote record available; David said he thought he could and would forward both files and then the combined file.

Tom Ryan mentioned he will be out of town for about three or four months; Karen asked Tom if he would want the mock election RLA to wait until he gets back. Tom said he would be back in mid-October, and he would really like to be present.

Arnie asked David if, when they run the data, the order in which the ballots are counted doesn't change since they just do the one run-through of the 30,000. David responded that in theory that would be correct, but there are times when the machine doesn't take the ballot the first time due to a bad grab or something, and the ballot is out-stacked. The ending number may exceed 30,000 and they may not be in the original order. The other aspect is if there are any write-ins, those ballots are sorted to a different bin and they would also not be in the correct sequential order, but they would all be together in one box. Tom asked if when they ran the 30,000 ballots, they were serialized; David responded that no, they were only run to make sure the vendor sent ballots that were usable and would tabulate correctly. The intent is to serialize them at the time of the RLA.

ITEM 13. ELECTION DATABASE STRUCTURE AND DISTRIBUTION – Tom Ryan

Tom said that the cast vote record (CVR) is of primary interest, along with statements of votes cast (SOVC) from each day of counting. Bill asked if the software vendor has given a definitive answer on whether they can produce a report like that; Brad responded that Tom Quigley in the Elections Department is getting very close to what Tom is looking for. Tom Ryan's understanding is that the CVR would be produced once at the end of the election, while the SOVC could be produced at the end of each day. The two together would provide a pretty thorough analysis of the election.

MEMORANDUM

Date: March 31, 2016

To: Chairman and Members
Election Integrity Commission

From: C.H. Huckelberry
County Administrator

Re: Referral of Inquiry from the Board of Supervisors Regarding Election Matters and Involuntary Change of Party Affiliation

The Board of Supervisors, in canvassing the March 22, 2016 Presidential Preference Election, requested the Election Integrity Commission review the issue of voters believing they had a specific party affiliation and hence, eligibility to cast a ballot for the Presidential Preference Election but were denied a regular ballot. They then were required to vote a provisional ballot due to their party affiliation being involuntarily changed by a State agency and/or program.

We understand there has been communication between the Arizona Department of Transportation's Motor Vehicle Division and the Secretary of State regarding this matter. We also understand the Recorder's Association of Arizona has also been requesting information regarding the processing of certain Motor Vehicle Division documents that may have resulted in this problem.

The Board of Supervisors has requested your review of this issue. Please provide a report of your findings to the Board of Supervisors at your earliest convenience.

ELECTION INTEGRITY COMMISSION

Pima County, Arizona

TO: Honorable Chair and Members
Pima County Board of Supervisors

FROM: Tom Ryan, Chair
Election Integrity Commission

Chuck Huckelberry
Pima County Administrator

DATE: June 10, 2016

RE: REFERRAL OF INQUIRY FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS REGARDING ELECTION MATTERS AND INVOLUNTARY CHANGE OF PARTY AFFILIATION

In your March 31, 2016 memo, the Election Integrity Commission (EIC) was asked to review the issue of voters believing their party registration had been involuntarily changed, and as a result they were required to vote provisional ballots.

The EIC was unable to do extensive research on this topic, but there definitely were cases where voters were surprised to find they had to vote provisionally. The County Republican and Democratic Party leaders were contacted just after the election, but neither could provide a list of aggrieved individuals, and neither thought the problem was extensive. The State Democratic Party was also contacted, and they provided one name from Maricopa County. The EIC hosted a visitor, Peter Davis, from Green Valley who brought statements from a few people who thought their voter registrations had been mishandled.

Chris Roads from the County Recorder's Office reviewed all of the cases in Pima County and each was explained as a human error either by the voter or by the MVD. It was very clear to us that the MVD form was confusing. Chris Roads and EIC members offered suggestions for ways to clarify the voter registration part of the form. In one case, it appeared that the Republican Party in Green Valley failed to forward registration forms in a timely manner prior to the election.

The voter from Maricopa County had registered twice under slightly different spellings and the MC Recorder's Office had tried unsuccessfully to contact her. I put them in touch and have been told the problem has been solved.

The Presidential Preference Election always causes confusion because independent voters are not eligible, and many voters who may think they are affiliated with major Parties, are, in fact, undeclared.

The bottom line is that the EIC does not believe there were intentional or inadvertent modifications of any voter registration databases. However, it would have been useful to look at the statistics of voter registration changes in the months prior to PPE's and compare them with statistics from other more standard elections. The EIC is unable to pursue this approach without additional resources and access to voter registration data, but we are willing to do so if such data and resources are provided.
