S+J Strategies in Pima County

1 Court System Innovations and Treatment Alternatives (Funded by MacArthur Foundation)

2 Preventing and Resolving Failure to Appear Warrants

3 Post Conviction Alternatives to Jail

1 Court System Innovations and Treatment Alternatives (Funded by MacArthur Foundation)

- ✓ • Implement Universal Pretrial Risk Screening for all defendants booked in County Jail on felonies and misdemeanors to increase post-booking releases
- Implement substance abuse/mental health screening before the Initial Appearance (IA) to provide the court with safe treatment alternatives to jail
- Increase Pretrial Services capacity to supervise high-risk individuals with behavioral health needs after release
- ✓ • Provide training to justice system stakeholders, including judges, about court system innovations and treatment alternatives, and about implicit bias

Preventing and Resolving Failure to Appear Warrants

- ✓ • Enhance automated call, text, and email court-reminders
- ✓ • Establish multi-jurisdictional warrant resolution court dates on weekends and evenings
- Strengthen relations with Tribal Nations and work to offer tribal members living on reservations easier access to courts in Pima County

Saturday's warrant resolution event to include justice, municipal courts

All Tucson-area municipal and Justice courts will be participating in Warrant Resolution Court on Saturday morning.

The event, held at Pima County Consolidated Justice Court, 240 N. Stone Ave., will run from 8 a.m. to noon and will include representatives from Oro Valley Magistrate Court, Marana Municipal Court, Green Valley Justice Court, Sahuarita Municipal Court and South Tucson City Court.

Lawyers with the Pima County Attorney's Office and Pima County Office of Court Appointed Counsel will also be on hand to help resolve criminal cases.

the suspension of a person's driver's license.

Attending Warrant Resolution Court is a way to quash the outstanding warrant and have driver's licenses reinstated by the Motor Vehicle Division.

Customer service windows will be open to assist people who owe court fees and fines and to help set up or re-establish payment plans.

Walk-ins are welcome, but anyone who plans on attending is encouraged to call the specific court in advance to make sure their matter can be resolved quickly. More information can be found on the event's website.

Tucson City Court, 103 E. Alameda St., will be open during the same hours for anyone with a warrant issued from there.

More than 3,775 people have attended past events, with 729 warrants quashed and 545 driver's license suspensions lifted.
