Welcomes
Everyday Democracy

EVERYDAY DEMOCRACY COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

SUPPORTING PIMA COUNTY, ARIZONA

November 4-6, 2019

Supported by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation

Everyday Democracy's Approach to Community Change

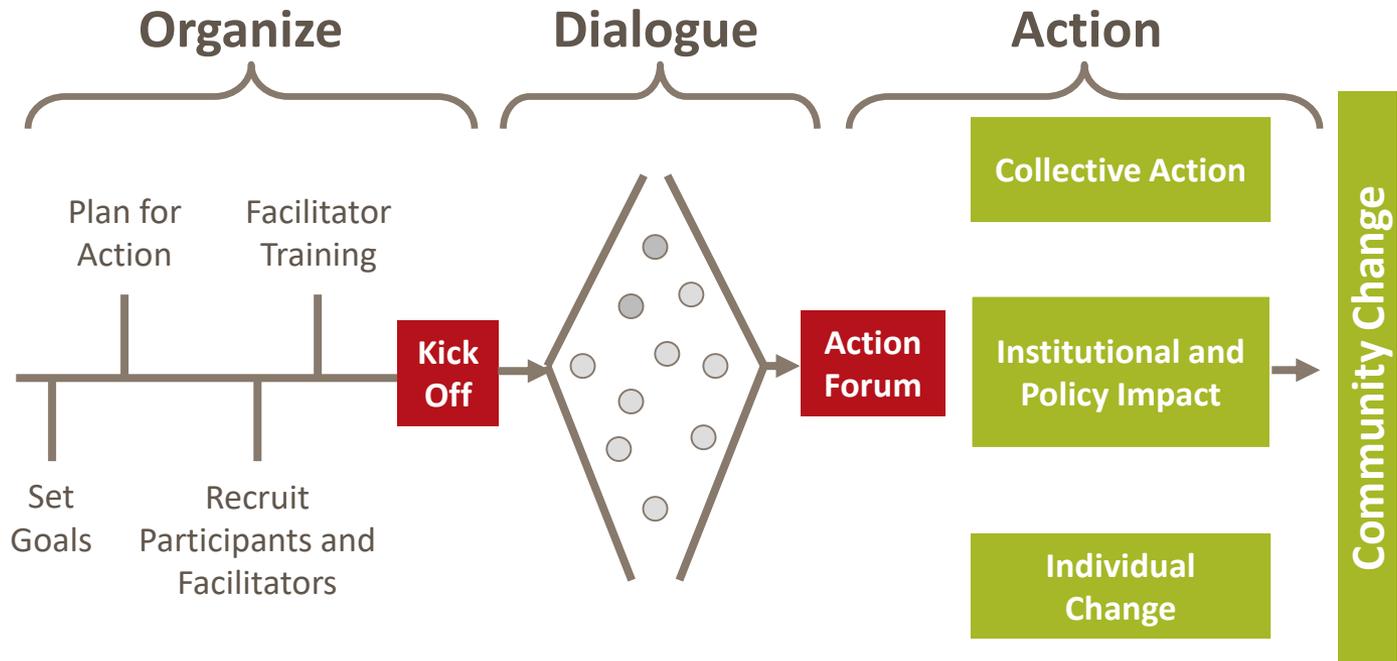

- Build collective power through inclusive community organizing
- Incorporate dialogue that leads to action and change
- Support action implementation and sustainability of community change efforts
- Bring a racial and intergenerational equity lens through all phases of the work

The Power of Applying an Equity Lens

Equitable, Inclusive democratic change happens when:

- People from all walks of life have opportunities to speak honestly with each other and develop trusting relationships.
- When people, organizations, systems, and institutions work together for common good.
- When policies, decisions, and problem solving reflect everyone's voice; particularly those who have been marginalized or excluded.

Here's how the Dialogue-to-Change Process works...

A Dialogue-to-Change Process

- Organized by a diverse group of people from the whole community
- Includes a large number of people from all walks of life
- Has easy-to-use, fair-minded discussion materials
- Uses trained facilitators who reflect the community's diversity
- Moves a community to change when the dialogues conclude

Dialogue Circles

- 10-12 participants
- Weekly meetings
- 4-6 sessions
- 2- hour sessions
- 2 Facilitators
- Diverse facilitators and participants

Aligning with MacArthur's Four (4) Pillars of Community Engagement

- Authenticity
- Accessibility and Transparency
- Respect for Diversity
- Commitment to ongoing engagement

The approach embodies democratic principles of equality, inclusiveness and collaboration and is based on the ideas that:

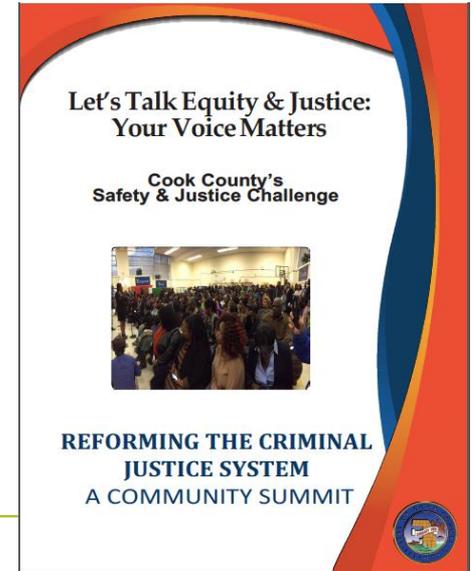

- People care about the communities they live in and want to make them better.
- Complex problems call for many kinds of solutions
- People from all backgrounds and all segments of society have something to contribute
- When everyone is included in public life, everybody benefits
- When all kinds of people develop trust and relationships through face to face dialogue, new ideas and approaches emerge
- When people consider different points of view on a complex issue, they uncover common ground and find better solutions
- And lastly and most importantly, relationships and trust begins to surface.

DEMOCRACY: “DIALOGUES TO CHANGE”

Using Dialogue Circles to Raise Community Voice
through a Racial Equity Lens

---

Q & A

---

Group Agreements

- ❖ Speak respectfully
- ❖ Seek first to understand, then to be understood
- ❖ Step up, step back
- ❖ Agree to disagree
- ❖ Use “ouch” so we all can learn
- ❖ Expect and accept non-closure
- ❖ Recognize that discomfort often leads to growth
- ❖ Respect confidentiality
